Eisenhower Is Stricken With 'Upset Stomach'

Girard's Friends Carry Plea To White House

Seek Trial In U.S. For Soldier Held For Killing Woman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fellow townsmen of William S. Girard carry to the White House today their pleas that the soldier be tried by an American court in the death of a Japanese woman.

A delegation from Ottawa, Ill., Girard's home town, had an appointment to confer with Edward A. McCabe, associate counsel to President Eisenhower. The group hopes to win reversal of an American government decision to allow Girard, a specialist third class, to be tried by a Japanese court.

Brother Heads Delegation
Heading the delegation, which includes several Ottawa city officials, was Louis, the soldier's older brother.

En route to Washington, Louis told newsmen in Chicago Sunday, "My brother is an American citizen and I think he should be tried by an American court."

The soldier's brother, a garage mechanic, said he was carrying a petition signed by more than 6,000 mothers living in the Ottawa area. He said the petition asked an American trial for his brother.

Tonight, Louis Girard and his wife Shirley are scheduled to appear on the ABC television program Press Conference.

William Girard, 21, is charged with fatally shooting Mrs. Naka Sakai last Jan. 30 while she was scavenging for scrap metal on a firing range used by American forces in Japan. Girard has said the shooting was accidental.

Caused Heavy Controversy
The case has generated considerable controversy here and in Japan. Some members of Congress have demanded cancellation or revision of a Japanese-American agreement under which U. S. soldiers may be tried by Japanese courts for offenses committed while off duty.

Opponents of a Japanese trial for Girard contend he was on duty at the time of the shooting incident. They cite his orders to guard American equipment on the firing range. The Japanese argue Girard's orders did not go so far as to allow him to shoot.

In Tokyo, a spokesman for the Japanese Justice Ministry said his country "hopes the United States will stand by its treaty commitments and will not renege on its official decision to let Girard be tried here."

The spokesman noted legal moves by Girard's American lawyers to have him returned to the United States. A hearing is docketed in U. S. District Court here Tuesday on an application by Girard's lawyers for an order directing him to return to the U. S.

Mayflower II Nears U.S. Mainland

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—The replica of the bark Mayflower today battled stormy seas as it neared the mainland in a repeat of the original Atlantic crossing of the Pilgrims in 1620.

The Coast Guard reported at dawn that the seas were "rough" in the area of Nantucket Island where the Mayflower II was last reported.

Cmdr. Alan J. Villiers, skipper of the square-rigged bark, Sunday night reported his position as about 90 miles south-southwest of the Nantucket lightship off the Massachusetts coast and proceeding a five knots.

He also radioed that he expected to be off Provincetown late tonight or early Tuesday. From Princeton, the vessel must sail 24 miles across Massachusetts Bay and enter Plymouth Harbor at high tide.

Workmen are busy completing a 140-foot wooden ramp near Plymouth Rock which will extend to the water line for the crewmen of Mayflower II to come ashore. They also are building stands for 7,000 spectators.

Heart, Intestinal Specialists Are Summoned

President Confined To Bed; Business Meetings Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was stricken today with "an upset stomach." The White House called in heart and intestinal medical specialists.

Bringing in the specialists was described as "purely a precautionary measure."

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty described Eisenhower's new distress as a stomach upset but said in a statement that there was "no indication that this digestive upset is related in any way to the President's recent operation (for ileitis) or to his heart attack" of Sept. 24, 1955.

Last Saturday was the first anniversary of Eisenhower's ileitis attack for which he underwent surgery.

Hagerty announced shortly after 10:15 a.m. (EDT) that Eisenhower's business engagements for the day had been canceled on the recommendation of the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder.

Hagerty also told a news conference that Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, the heart specialist who attended Eisenhower in 1955 had been called in from Walter Reed Army Hospital here as "a purely precautionary step."

He said Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Walter Reed commandant and surgeon who operated on the President just a year ago Sunday, also would come to the White House later in the day.

Hagerty also described that as a precautionary step.

Hagerty called newsmen to his office at 10:15 a.m. EDT, and read this statement:

Something President Ate
"The President had an upset stomach early this morning, apparently caused by something he ate which disagreed with him."

"Dr. Snyder recommended that the President's engagements be canceled today and that the President remain in bed."

"The President's temperature is normal as is his blood pressure."

"Electrocardiogram (tracing heart performance) shows no change from the many that have been made since his recent heart attack."

"There is no indication that this digestive upset is related in any way to the President's recent operation (for ileitis) or to his heart attack."

Hagerty told newsmen, in response to questions, that Eisenhower suffered during the night from nausea and that he vomited two or three times.

Responding to other questions, Hagerty said he thought the possibility that ileitis had recurred could be ruled out. Hagerty said Eisenhower's distress this time was in his stomach, rather than in the intestines.

Ileitis is an inflammation at the juncture of the large and small intestines.

The ileitis attack a year ago caused partial blockage of the lower intestines.

Doctors operated early on June 9, 1956, to relieve the obstruction. They said later they had no alternative, adding that the ailment could have been fatal unless the blockage had been eliminated.

Received Honorary Degree
Sunday evening, the President attended ground breaking ceremonies for construction at American University here, and received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Giving newsmen a chronological report on the development of the President's latest illness, Hagerty said that when he met Eisenhower

Blonde With A Woe

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U) — Marilyn Monroe, whom gentlemen prefer, says blondes have a woe that other women are spared.

"If you're a blonde," she mused, "it is considered that you have to be told what to do — that someone else has to decide things for you."

"Miss Monroe today certainly has no chip on her shoulder. But she has made it abundantly clear that, whenever her mind is to be made up, she'd like to pitch in and help, too."

As Hollywood's most shapely producer since Sam Goldwyn gave up barbells, Marilyn is here for the premiere of her first production, "The Prince and the Showgirl," in which she co-stars with Sir Laurence Olivier.

"I co-produced this with Olivier," she said. "I bought the property and brought it to him. He had played the prince on the stage, and I thought he was the only man for the role."

"In all fairness, he should probably be called the producer. I'm the owner."

"I was an actress from six in the morning until noon," she recalled, "and a producer during lunch. Then I was an actress the rest of the afternoon — and a producer from 6:30 until 9 p. m., when we looked over the day's rushes."

When I first met Marilyn several years ago, she was an uncertain kid with an unsure foothold on fame, and I couldn't be sure whether she was frightened or amused by what was happening to her.

Today I had the same sensation of doubt. It is hard to figure whether Marilyn, who retains a kind of breathless, small girl quality, is scared inside herself — or secretly laughing at you because she's a step ahead of you, and knows it.

The interview was in her apartment. Marilyn entered, as tousled and lovely as ever, and said:

"I'd rather not be asked whether I'm pregnant or not, or to discuss anything political or religious. Otherwise, I'll talk about anything."

Asked what she thought was the biggest public misconception about her, she laughed and replied:

"People identify me personally with the parts I play. It isn't so much that I mind, but it just isn't so. But I've played so many different parts by now they must be confused."

She said that she and her playwright husband, Arthur Miller, have "no present plans for a joint production," adding:

"He isn't writing anything for the screen. He's working on a play."

She indicated she is still a bit mystified why some critics thought it uproariously funny a few years ago when she expressed an ambition to play the role of Grushenka in "The Brothers Karamazov."

"I was asked why I wanted to be highbrow," she recalled, "but I didn't. Most of those who thought my ambition funny had never read the book."

"Grushenka was an earthy girl. Her name in Russian means 'Juicy Pear.' I love that!"

"I'd still like to play Grushenka, with Marlon Brando playing Dmitri. I'd go see that picture myself."

Who says this kind doesn't understand boxoffice?

Marilyn feels the recent crowded

years haven't basically changed her outlook.

"The thing I'm scared of most is myself," she said. "But I do feel I've grown both as an actress and a person, and I hope I'll keep growing."

"I never tried to be independent just to show my independence. It wasn't so much that I objected to doing one kind of role. I merely wanted the freedom to do other kinds of roles, too."

"Luxury doesn't mean much to me. Both my husband and I like to live simply."

In a childhood of hardship in which she moved from pillar to post, Marilyn knew plenty of rugged lonely years. When I asked her if she was broke and friendless again, what she'd miss most in her present life of comfort, she thought hard, then said:

"Not jewelry...I really don't care for it. Not expensive stockings...I could go bare-legged. Not a car...or fine food or a big house. 'It's a bed, I guess...a big comfortable bed. I'd hate ever to be so poor again that I didn't have a bed of my own.'"

STORE OPEN FRIDAY EVENINGS

Encouraged by Personal Income 'Uplift' Buyers Gather In New York To Study Latest 'Controls'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Men and women from many parts of the country are gathering here today to study foundations that play a large part in our social structure. They will set the fall pattern of controls that have become an important factor in the standard of living for almost half of the American population and perhaps increase the pleasure of the other half.

This is Fall Market Week for the foundation garment industry, the week when buyers view the new lines of some 150 firms in the corset and brassiere industry from all over the nation.

At stake are some 635 million dollars in retail sales, which would be an eight per cent increase over last year.

Spokesmen say the emphasis this year in the new lines will be less on controls (although they're fundamental) and more on high fashion. Manufacturers say one reason is that the considerable engineering problems faced last year with backless bras and corselets have now been licked. So they are turning to new yarns, colors, finishes and styling.

Sales optimism is based partly on the fashion angle, but also on the curve in total disposable personal income which has been showing a reassuring uplift for some time. Economists say the foundation garment sales over the years have followed closely the rising or falling curves in consumer incomes.

But industry sales have done better than other apparel lines. It may surprise the man of the house, but the percentage of the consumer dollar that has gone for women's wardrobes has dropped since 1946.

During these same years, however, the Federal Reserve notes that the percentage of department store sales represented in the woman's land of the corset and bra sanctums has increased.

LET'S EXPLORE OHIO

Among the many Ohio Lakes that provide water sport recreation for thousands each summer, Lake Erie is obviously the largest and probably the most popular. East Harbor, a bay of Lake Erie in Ottawa County a few miles from Port Clinton, is a State Park familiar to most as a good place to fish, swim or enjoy picnic or boat outings.

East Harbor is a natural bay cut off from Lake Erie by a long sand bar through which a channel connects with the lake. It has a surface area of 850 acres and a large portion of the bay is less than six feet in depth. Boats are available for rental on this sheltered bay and in the area are a wide variety of accommodations available for weekend visitors or vacationing families. The long sand bar that protects East Harbor also provides one of the best sand bathing beaches on Lake Erie.

This area attracts marsh, shore and water birds in wide variety and large number.

4 Drown In Boating Mishap In Virginia

DAHLGREN, Va. (AP) — Virginia's worst boating accident of the year claimed the lives of two men, a woman and a boy Sunday.

Eleven members of a family fishing expedition were heading for shore in a 20-foot houseboat to escape worsening weather.

The boat was within 200 yards of the beach when Joe Miller, 7, stumbled over a railing and tumbled into eight-foot-deep waters of Machedoc Creek.

In quick succession, the child's father, Melvin Miller, 32; Miller's sister Mrs. Pauline Houchins, 35, and her husband Wayne, 40, leaped to the rescue.

All drowned while relatives on the boat, including Miller's wife and their other three children, threw out life preservers.

Graying of the Hair

I get a good many inquiries about graying of the hair and particularly premature whitening.

It is impossible to explain what happens in simple terms: "The coloration of hair is due to the enzymatic oxidation of tyrosine in the melanocytes, which are situated between the germinative cells of the hair and which contain the specific enzyme tyrosinase. If this enzymatic function is lost the hair turns gray. . . . Graying of each hair is an autochthonous process."

In a more practical vein, I can give a fairly good answer to Mrs. S. J., who asks whether the premature gray hair is hereditary and if anything can be done about it in the way of special foods or vitamins.

Almost certainly premature graying of the hair runs in some families, but the exact hereditary lines are sometimes difficult to follow.

As to the question of diet, there is nothing to date which can be given which will reverse premature graying of the hair, at least when this follows family trends.

Turning to a lighter subject, I should like to make some remarks about the perpetually interesting but medically unimportant subject of whether the hair can turn white "overnight."

There are many accounts of this having happened, but most of them, when tracked down, turn out to be second or third hand. It has always proved difficult to get direct evidence.

After writing about this subject once before I received several letters from people who claimed they knew someone whose hair had turned suddenly white.

One of them wrote: "Shortly after the crash in the fall of 1907, I interviewed a man in a New England industrial city. My recollection is that his age was under

50. I went to his home 10 days or two weeks later. The man who met me at the door invited me in but seemed surprised that I did not recognize him. After concluding our talk the matter of his appearance came up and he told me the change in his hair had taken place in one night. I remembered his hair as black. Now two-thirds of his head was white and the rest in rough streaks remained black. It made a very strange sight."

In most of us the hair tends to lose pigment as we get older. This loss of pigment does not progress at the same rate of speed, and some people get gray hair much earlier in life than others.

The sudden loss of pigment is a different matter. It is virtually impossible to explain on scientific grounds. One writer pointed out that tales of sudden hair-whitening always referred to "overnight" and never "overday." It is possible that worry could speed the loss of pigment, but really sudden graying is unlikely.

Calculated Risk

It is too bad there is no way to present the American Cancer Society study of the connection between smoking habits and health with out seeming to be undermining the tobacco industry. That is not the intention.

The two researchers who put together the report presented to the American Medical Association this week both use tobacco and enjoy it. Like millions of other Americans who are interested in the possibility of bad effects on their health, they regard their tobacco habit as a calculated risk.

Both men, incidentally — calculating the risk on the basis of what their statistical research prompts them to believe to be true — have changed the form of their tobacco habit. They now smoke pipes.

It also is unfortunate that in the presentation of their statistics dramatic emphasis was placed heavily on only one risk — the chance of incurring cancer of the lungs. There are other risks of equal concern, such as gastric ulcers, coronary artery disease, pneumonia and cerebral vascular lesions.

But the risks singly or collectively do not mean there is anything intrinsically wrong with the use of tobacco. They can be justified in the same way that the risks of radioactive fall-out from fission and fusion explosions can be justified. They are worth taking, in other words, if they are understood by the human beings who take them. People will continue to do a hundred other things riskier than using tobacco.

The Tobacco Industry Research Committee, which questions the results of the American Cancer Society study, is conducting its own research. There is no reason to believe its researchers are any less objective than those who are working for the American Cancer Society. Altogether, their work will add up to a vast store of knowledge about the calculated risk of one of man's favorite pleasures.

Intent Of Congress

It is too much to expect that ordinary citizens ever will be able to follow the involved reasoning of Supreme Court justices in complex legal issues like the government's action against the way the du Pont family invests its money.

But any ordinary citizen can understand that something is wrong with a Supreme Court decision that does not reflect the opinion of a true majority of the court.

Three justices had sidled themselves in last Monday's decision that du Pont investments in General Motors Corp. securities were contrary to the Clayton Act. Two of the six justices who took part in the decision were diametrically and violently opposed to the opinion of the four justices who made up the majority.

A majority of the Supreme Court is five, not four. The possibility that a different decision might have been reached with all nine members of the Supreme Court participating cannot be shrugged off as judicial happenstance.

Too much is involved in this case and in the precedent created for other cases to settle for what looks like possibly accidental outcome. Although the Supreme Court cannot undo what it has done, Congress can take steps to undo the consequences of what it has done by reviewing the question of antitrust legislation.

The way things stand now, with judges interpreting antitrust laws in a way that could not conceivably have been the intent of Congress when the laws were passed a generation ago, no enterprise can be sure of its standing before the law. The people of the United States have too much at stake in their enterprise system to let jurists split hairs over it—when the jurists themselves, disagree.

Nothing Revolutionary

With a week of superheated arguments scheduled in the House of Representatives on civil rights proposals, herewith is a reminder of what the Eisenhower administration wants. It is nothing revolutionary.

The administration wants a bipartisan commission to look into asserted violations of civil rights in the Department of Justice. It wants safeguards to protect the voting rights of citizens in states that systematically deny voting rights to these citizens. Last, it wants authority for the U.S. attorney general to seek preventive injunctions in civil rights cases, without waiting for procedures relying on local judges and juries.

At present, the only means of enforcing federal voting safeguards is by criminal proceedings — an archaic and unworkable approach. The prospect for enactment of a civil rights program is dim. Southern resistance will be asserted in two traditional ways: crippling amendments to pending proposals and, in the Senate, the filibuster. Before congressional debate closes, the issue will have been distorted and fogged over beyond recognition. But it is nothing revolutionary that is being proposed—just protection of the basic rights of U.S. citizenship in those places where the rights are suspended, contrary to the Constitution.

Ambiguity Magnified

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Ike Caught in Pitfall by Spur of Moment Remarks

David Lawrence with the newsman. Thus, the President's remarks on the Khrushchev broadcast and trade with Red China, unfortunately, were given a meaning in subsequent press dispatches which the President could hardly have intended to convey.

Mr. Eisenhower, when asked, for instance, about the Soviet spokesman's broadcast June 2, over the Columbia Broadcasting System, said:

"A commercial firm in this country, trying to improve its own commercial standing, went to unusual effort to get someone that was — who really made a unique performance in front of our people, and he could do that because this is a free country."

Now, the President thought that, by the use of the word "commercial," he was making a distinction between the case of a private, as contrasted with a governmental, operation.

But some of his hearers, who seemed sensitive about the word "commercial" — maybe because they think it is tainted with some kind of materialism that reflects on their profession — promptly got irritated.

ONE QUESTIONER went so far as to remind the President that the program itself was not "commercial" but "sustaining."

This, in the parlance of radio and television, means that it is not "sponsored" by an advertiser though, to be sure, commercial advertisers directly or indirectly foot all the bills of both kinds of programs for the broadcasting and television companies.

Nothing in a derogatory sense was intended by the President, as the further context of his remarks plainly showed, when he drew a distinction between the enterprise of a private organization in this country and the necessity of some such initiative coming from the analogous set-up abroad — which happens to be government-controlled in the Soviet Union.

Had the President revised the transcript of the press conference to emphasize private initiative, there would have been no misunderstanding.

The President's real meaning was brought out in the continuation of his remarks, as follows:

"Now, if the President of the United States should go to Russia and ask for full time, let's see what he would get: First of all, there are 14 television stations, and there is radio coverage."

"I would say that if the Soviet Union — in return for that courtesy — of themselves wanted to ask an American, no matter who it might be, because, after all, you know Khrushchev is not the head of the state — except in power — but if they should invite an American to come, and guarantee that there would be no interference, that they wouldn't put up counter-attractions to take people away from their radios, and all that sort of thing, for that time — if you can believe that will happen — I can tell you this, that somebody in this government would be glad to accept."

NOW, THE BIG NEWS in that answer is that the American government really does want a chance to reply and yet doesn't feel that it should beg for radio or television time, but that the facilities should be offered on the initiative of the Russians.

Mention of the point about private or "commercial" initiative in America was related solely to a matter of procedure — no substance.

The fact remains that the American government now has challenged the Soviet Union to open up its facilities for a reply by some spokesman for the United States.

There was an ambiguity, too, in the President's answers about trade with Red China. He said:

"Now, frankly, I am personally of the school of thought which believes that trade, in the long run, cannot be stopped."

"You are going to have either just authorized trade or you are going to have clandestine trade."

"You can stop the shipments from here, that is in the law, and that will be continued as long as it is in the law."

The President went on to discuss the "differential" — which means letting shipments go to Soviet Russia and not to Red China — and said that, while he doesn't "see as much advantage in maintaining the differential as some people do," he has "never advocated" what he terms "the complete elimination" of the differential.

THAT'S THE BRITISH view which came persuasively from the lips of Prime Minister Macmillan at the recent conference with the President at Bermuda.

This, however, is an ambiguous and inadequate exposition by the President of a delicate problem.

For, if it is logical to trade in non-strategic items just to make money, it's as logical for the same trade with Red China to be pursued in strategic articles. It's one way to build up potential enemies.

The democracies have done it twice — before two world wars — only to see their own sons killed with the bullets and shells fashioned from such prewar trade.

These are subjects that call for more cautious and unambiguous treatment in press conferences.

This will come only when questions are submitted by the reporters in advance and the President is briefed with written replies that have had the previous approval of all members of the government concerned with the different policies involved, as is the wise custom of the British Cabinet.

Father's Day Story

By DOROTHY MCCARDLE

The next secretary of the treasury has a couple of other things in common with the President of the United States besides the federal budget and the national debt.

That sage who said that it's the little things that count must have had in mind men like Dwight Eisenhower and Robert B. Anderson who like to discuss the little things of every day life just as well as the big things affecting the nation.

Two of these little things are small boys and recipes.

With Father's Day coming up next Sunday, Bob Anderson, the engaging Texas Democrat turned Eisenhower Republican, will never forget the Father's Day at Landon School three years ago.

His then 13-year-old son Jerry had been counting on proudly escorting his dad to the school program for fathers.

It would happen that was the day and time when a special Cabinet meeting was called at the White House.

President Eisenhower especially asked the then new Deputy Secretary of Defense Anderson to attend.

So sadly, Bob explained to Jerry. The lad appeared to take the disappointment stoically enough.

Later that evening, Bob Anderson went in to tell his son good-night, found the boy huddled under the covers, sobbing his heart out.

"I did think you could be a father just one day out of the whole year!" the child blurted out.

Quietly, the man who is now being mentioned in drawing-rooms here as a possible future White House successor to Ike, called up the President, explained his dilemma.

It didn't take Grandfather Eisenhower a minute to make his decision. He excused Bob Anderson from the Cabinet meeting.

And next day, no prouder lad than Jerry Anderson escorted his father to the school program.

"It seemed to make a terrific impression on him that I would arrange to duck a Cabinet meeting to be with him," Bob Anderson recalls fondly.

China Policy Thaw Impending?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — American policy on Red China, having gone full circle, is frozen now. The Eisenhower administration shows no signs of thawing it. But it may have to.

Time was when this country not only washed its hands of Chiang Kai-shek but gave the Red Chinese a clear road to invade Formosa, where he fled with the remnants of his Nationalist government in the fall of 1949.

But it switched under President Truman, when the Korean War began, and the Truman policy is being continued by President Eisenhower.

This country still refuses to recognize the Red Chinese as the real government of mainland China. It totally bans American trade with them. It refuses to agree to let them into the United Nations.

It takes the position that Chiang's Formosa government is the only one entitled to represent all China in the U. N., and is pledged to defend Formosa from Red Chinese attack.

At the same time the United States will not let Chiang attack the mainland. He couldn't do it anyway, without American help. So he and his troops sit there, getting older, apparently with nothing to look forward to except dying.

But American allies — like Britain — are getting fed up with the rigidity of American policy. They're beginning to assert themselves. Britain, for instance, recognized the Reds as the legitimate government of China from the moment they smashed Chiang in 1949.

They've been willing — so far — to defer to American wishes against pushing for admittance of Red China to the U. N. but money counts, and trade means money. On this the British finally kicked up their heels.

Under American insistence after the entry of Chinese Communists into the Korean War, the Allies have had far less trade with Red China than with Russia. This no longer made sense to the British when they needed money.

Within the past two weeks they announced their own new, independent policy: they'll do just about the same kind of trading with Red China as with Russia. Others, like Japan, will probably follow suit.

The Allies, through trade and other contacts with Red China, may achieve an advantageously close relationship which will estrange this country from its friends or force a relaxation in its attitude toward Red China.

The Eisenhower administration, in its continuing refusal to recognize the Red government of China, has already made American policy look like a bit of fiction. For months this country has been negotiating in Geneva with the Chinese Reds.

The Eisenhower administration has given the impression — at least at times — of letting the extreme pro-Chiang Republicans in Congress set this country's policy toward Red China. They've been utterly rigid.

An example came this week at Eisenhower's news conference when he said he didn't see "as much advantage" as some others do in this country's insistence on more limited trade with Red China than with Russia.

His statement raised an immediate question: If that's how he feels, why didn't he take the lead in doing something about it?

Chiang fled to Formosa Dec. 10, 1949. But four months before then — on Aug. 5 — Truman's administration issued a "white paper" which said further help to Chiang was useless because his government was a failure.

And on Jan. 5, 1950, just 26 days before Chiang got to Formosa, Truman laid down a new American policy: no interference with the Chinese people — meaning all Chinese — and no American defense of Formosa if the Red Chinese attacked.

Truman reversed the policy in June 1950 when the Korean War began. To protect the United States' southern flank, he ordered the 7th Fleet to protect Formosa from Red attack.

Since then Eisenhower has ordered the 7th Fleet to back off, and in 1955 this country signed a mutual defense pact with Chiang. But essentially U.S. China policy remains unchanged.

Of Gnats and Camels

By RAYMOND MOLEY

In the heated debate last week on the housing measure, Pennsylvania's Sen. Clark said, in connection with a tour he had made through the slum and depressed sections of Washington, something about "the hungry children of the District of Columbia, of which the senator from Oregon was chairman."

I am sure that the senator from Oregon would be an excellent chairman for these unfortunate children. But his concern extends also in a romantic fashion—presumably under the influence of the coming of June—to those who will be newly wed in the month ahead.

They should not be denied, he said, "that great investment in America's freedom — a private home."

DESPITE THE emotional impact of this plea, the bill as finally enacted by the Senate and sent to conference was much less generous than that passed by the House.

The House bill authorized new spending authority for housing programs totaling 2.8 billion dollars. This would be in excess of the President's budget requests by no less than 1.8 billion dollars.

Thus the House, despite all the talk about slashing the budget, would wipe out all its savings and much more in a single bill.

The Senate bill as finally passed, after the adoption of an amendment by Sen. Bricker, would provide authorizations totaling 375 million dollars for three programs not requested by the President and would add another slum clearance authorization of 250 million for fiscal 1959.

IT IS TO BE expected, moreover, that when the bill comes out of conference the compromise will be considerably above the Senate version.

In his statement Sen. Byrd sharply underlined the utter irreponsibility of such legislation: "For those who may be unclear as to what 'authority to spend from debt receipts' means, the budget document defines it as 'authorization to make expenditures from borrowed money.'"

"It might be described as an appropriation of funds to be borrowed by the Treasury, in contrast to an appropriation of funds in the general fund by virtue of ordinary receipts.

"When these housing agencies are authorized to spend from debt receipts," it simply means that on their demand, the Treasury must go out and sell bonds and provide the money.

"Authorization to spend out of public debt receipts is the most vicious of all appropriation devices. It not only bypasses appropriation control, it piles up federal debt."

"WHEN THIS authorization bill is passed, there will never be another look at it by Congress. The Appropriations Committees will never hear of it."

"There is little that the President and the Budget Bureau can do to control its expenditure. There is nothing the Treasury can do to hold down the increase in the debt it authorizes."

The opportunity will therefore present itself to the President by one bold stroke to reveal the hypocrisy of all the talk in Congress about reducing the President's budget and to put himself on the side of the taxpayer.

He can and should veto the bill which finally is sent to his desk.

Congress, he might say, has been straining at gnats and swallowing camels.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Who's On First?

A lot of puzzled people are trying to figure out how such an important decision as the one in the du Pont - General Motors issue could be settled by a vote of 4 to 2 in a Supreme Court which has nine men on the full team.

"How come the other three justices weren't in the official lineup for the crucial contest?" they are asking. "Had they been traded to some other club? Did they develop a last-minute charlie horse?"

NO. THIS WAS the unusual case of bench occupants benching themselves. Two Supreme Court justices disqualified themselves and one merely took no part for lack of a warmup period.

But it still seems something like the Yankees taking the field in a world series without anybody playing the outfield.

The 4 to 2 score in the U. S. Supreme Court is a new one. We like to feel that when this high tribunal goes to bat everybody is playing and no justices are taking a shower.

IT SEEMS TO US that if this sort of thing is to happen often the Supreme Court should have a second team and allow substitutions so that nothing that goes up on the scoreboard will seem a fluke or a shortage of right-hand hitters.

Incidentally, whatever became of the idea that the Democrats made all the decisions shelacking big business and that when some Republicans got on the bench industry would get a break?

WITH THREE JURISTS not voting, it was Republican Chief Justice Warren's lineup with Democratic Justices Black and Douglas that gave one of the most important business corporations in America "the works."

Otherwise, it would have been a photo finish, with no reversal of the lower court's decision that du Pont had done nothing illegal.

"Everything happens to me!" could logically be President Eisenhower's lament as the administration windows are rattled by a court which could have reported "Three of our men are missing, and at least two are hardly recognizable."

UNDERSTANDING the decision is like trying to follow a series game in which two stars stay in the dugout, one doesn't show up and a player who has always hit to left puts a homer into the right field stands.

Justice Clark kept out of it because he was attorney general when the suit was in process. Justice Harlan kept out because he had once been a du Pont attorney, and Justice Frankfurter, generally on the side against big business, handed down a dissenting opinion in favor of one of the biggest corporations on earth.

Frankfurter, usually with Black and Douglas, was holding them dead wrong while Warren, a top Republican, was siding with them. It was not so much a decision as a collision in which all hands got so dazed they climbed back into the wrong cars.

THE WHOLE THING now goes back to the lower Chicago Tribunal and this can mean another long delay. By the time it is finally settled the automobile may have been supplanted by the jet-plane in general usage. And du Pont may be making textiles for moon rockets and nylons for feminine space cadets.

JOHN L. LEWIS got an honorary degree the other day . . . Doctor of Belligerency or Master of Roadblocks?

We hear that one of the Yankees explained his presence in that niterly in the wee small hours by saying, "I just dropped in to find out what was new in baseball."

In that university that he seemed up to his eyebrows in culture.

Speaking of that $1,000 fine for Yanks, how does George Weiss think anybody has $1,000 left after a party at a New York night club?

Air National Guard Course To Open July 27

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A two-week summer training course for some 2,000 officers and men of the Ohio Air National Guard will start July 27 at the Phelps Collins Air National Guard Base at Alpena, Mich., the Ohio Adjutant General's office has announced.

Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber, Ohio Adjutant General, said all units of the 121st Fighter Interceptor Wing, the 555th Air Force Band from Toledo, and the state staff at Columbus, will take part in the training course.

Units going to Alpena will come from Columbus, Springfield, Akron, Canton, Toledo and Mansfield, Kreber said.

Others guardmen from Zanesville and Springfield, Ohio, will join with units from six other states for field training in communications in North and South Carolina June 16-30.

Squadrons from Ohio, Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, North Carolina, Illinois and Missouri, all part of the 251st Communications Group, will participate in the training course.

Ohioan May Be Charged With Manslaughter

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The State Highway Patrol confers with Greene County officials today about possible manslaughter charges against Clyde Moore, 37, Fairborn, accused of the hit-skip slaying Saturday night of an Air Force General's son.

Moore is accused of driving the car that killed Von R. Shores III, 14, son of Brig. Gen. Von R. Shores Jr.

The youth and his companion, Michael Estes, 13, son of Maj. Gen. H. M. Estes Jr., were riding bicycles at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near here when the accident occurred. Michael was reported in satisfactory condition at the Wright-Patterson Base Hospital.

Officers said Moore already has been charged with driving while intoxicated and with leaving the scene of an accident.

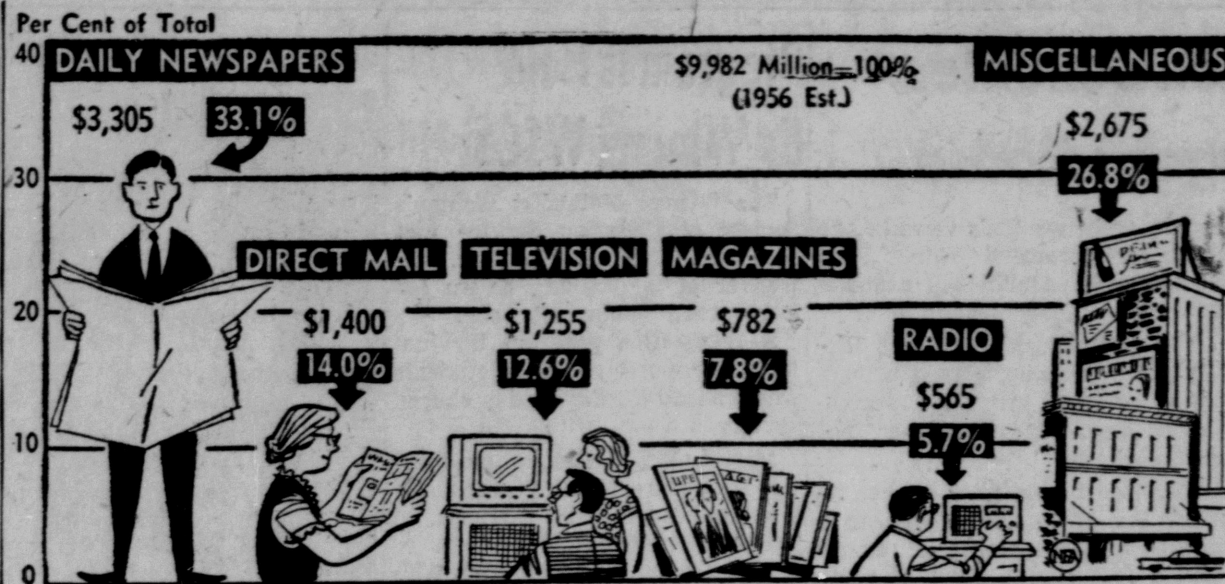

Moore was traced through a license plate number supplied by a witness who said he saw him unloading a bicycle from his car and then drive away, officers said.

Bomb In Algiers Kills 7, Wounds 83

ALGIERS (AP)—A terrorist bomb exploded under the bandstand Sunday night as French couples danced the cha-cha-cha in a fashionable seaside casino. It killed seven young people and wounded 83—many of them members of prominent Algiers families.

Authorities assumed the bomb was planted by Algerian nationalists, who have stepped up their campaign of bombing and killing to press their independence demands on the French government.

Arms and legs were blown from about a dozen of the 300 persons attending a tea dance at the Casino de la Corniche, a stucco building in a palm garden overlooking the sea at suburban St. Eugene.

None of the dead were over 25. Most of the casino's "Lucky Star" orchestra were killed outright. The dead, dying and wounded included young children attending the dance with their families.

The bomb, timed to go off at 7 p. m., was hidden in the concrete base of the bandstand. Officials say the bombings apparently are aimed at getting a favorable settlement to the 31-month-old Algerian rebellion from whatever new French government replaces Socialist Premier Guy Mollet's caretaker regime.

4 Persons Killed As Plane Hits House

PACIFICA, Calif. (AP)—A plane hit a house Sunday night, killing the four passengers, but eight persons sharing a birthday dinner in the home were unhurt.

Neighbors in this plane crash-conscious San Fernando Valley suburb of Los Angeles today were calling it "a miracle."

Barry Worth, 30, and his family were finishing hamburgers and corn. A cake with candles was on the table in honor of his mother-in-law's 57th birthday.

Then the rented, single-engine Piper Tri-Pacer plunged down on to the one-story, stucco home.

It tore a jagged gash across the roof over the dining and living rooms and wound up in a jumble of wreckage in the patio.

Glass from a shattered picture window showered around the diners, who were only 10 feet from the wreckage, but none of them were even hurt. There was no fire.

Killed were Owen Summers Wallis, 33; Henry Harris Smith, 42; Robert F. Petersen, 52; and Terrence Patterson Lockhart, 33, Chico businessmen. They were en route to Santa Monica in a plane piloted by Smith, construction company owner.

Claim GOP Drive For Gains In South Will Be Fruitless

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alabama's Democratic Senator Sparkman and Hill said today they hope the Republicans "spend a lot of money" in what they predicted will be a futile bid for House seats in the South next year.

They spoke out in a joint interview as President Eisenhower arranged a White House meeting with GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn and L. Lee Potter, the party's new director of Southern campaign activities.

Alcorn has expressed hope of picking up eight House seats in that area next year.

Sparkman, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said that in predicting Southern GOP gains, Alcorn "is whistling in the dark and he isn't whistling 'Dixie.'"

Hill said he believes that if Eisenhower participates personally in an attempt to win Southern seats for the GOP the reaction will favor the Democrats.

Reminded that Eisenhower carried five Southern states and border Kentucky last year, Hill replied: "More popular presidents than Eisenhower have found they couldn't transfer their popularity to others." He said he was referring to Franklin D. Roosevelt's abortive purge effort in 1938.

The White House inadvertently let slip Saturday Alcorn's selection of Potter, GOP state chairman for Virginia, as his special assistant to represent "the Republican party of the South." The appointment had been scheduled for announcement today, to be effective July 1.

In his formal announcement, Alcorn said Potter "is well qualified to direct the intensive organization operations that we hope will result in substantial Republican gains in congressional, state and local elections throughout the South."

He said conservative Southern voters who in the past have supported Democratic candidates have the choice of joining the Republican party or "being obliterated by the left-wing factions of the North that now pull all the strings within the framework of the Democrat organization."

CONSTIPATED?
New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloot or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, leaves even chronic constipation overdoes the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONOID's stretching capacity, plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

(about 10 jumbo size), 3 to 4 English muffins, halved and toasted; 6 to 8 slices tomato, broiled (optional).

Slice eggs, remove yolks and sieve. Melt butter in skillet over low heat; add onions; saute until tender. Blend in flour. Pour in 1 cup liquefied instant nonfat dry milk; stir until smooth. Add remaining nonfat dry milk, salt and pepper; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Add olives and egg whites. Top each muffin half with tomato slice; pour sauce over each. Sprinkle egg yolk on top.

Pauling is a Nobel Prize-winning California biochemist. He announced last week that 2,000 American scientists signed a stop-the-tests appeal that he wrote. It said radioactive elements, put in the air by the explosions, already are damaging human health all over the world. It added:

"As scientists we have knowledge of the dangers involved and therefore a special responsibility to make those dangers known. We deem it imperative that immediate action be taken to effect an international agreement to stop the testing of all nuclear weapons."

Pauling said he is now contemplating ways to enlist the support of scientists everywhere for this appeal.

He leaves Tuesday for a lecture tour in France. His position, summarized, is this:

1. People already are dying from the effects of fallout, radioactive particles carried by winds from the site of the explosions.
2. The physical danger increases with each added dose of radiation in the atmosphere.
3. This danger is greater than the danger of war today.
4. Therefore, for both moral and physical reasons, the three nations possessing nuclear weapons—the United States, Russia, and Britain—should agree to stop exploding them.

"It is my estimate that the bomb tests are causing now 1,000 additional deaths by leukemia (a blood disease) each year, and even more by bone cancer," the estimate, Pauling said, is based on a report on leukemia by Dr. E. D. Lewis, professor of biology at the California Institute of Technology, and on Atomic Energy Commission reports on fallout.

"I am convinced that there will be born in future generations hundreds of thousands of feeble-minded children, with serious physical defects because of the tests that already have been made," Pauling said.

He said he does not believe there is "any significant disagreement" among scientists about the question of fallout damage.

Where is the danger level of radiation in the atmosphere? "That is something that needs to be interpreted," he said. "Dr. (Willard) Libby (of the AEC) may say, as he does, that there is no detectable damage done by bomb tests. But he does not say there is no damage done by bomb tests. As to the effects of dosing the atmosphere with more radioactive materials, Pauling's statement signed by the 2,000 scientists said: 'Each added amount of radiation causes damage to the health of human beings all over the world and causes damage to the pool of human germ plasma. . . . But what about the danger of war? While it exists, can the U.S. risk a discontinuance in the weapons tests?'

"I am convinced that there will not be a nuclear war, that there never again will be a great world war," Pauling said.

He said he believed he understands the practical problems of disarmament, and does not know how to solve them. But he added that if the effort to solve them were commensurate "with the efforts now being made to perfect weapons of destruction, these problems could be solved."

recting that the soldier be produced in court in Washington.

Wouldn't Delay Departure

If such an order is granted, the Japanese spokesman said, nothing will be done to delay Girard's departure for the United States. Girard now is under Army detention at Camp Whittington, about 60 miles from Tokyo.

It was learned that top legal officers of the Defense Department will present two affidavits in court, one dealing with the known facts in the case and the other dealing with the applicable laws.

Commenting on the case Sunday, Vice President Nixon said in East Lansing, Mich., "The decision of the Defense Department and the administration is correct based on all the facts. Our relations with the Japanese have been excellent."

In Atlanta, Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he believes "there must be a pretty definite understanding" with Japan that Girard is "not to be punished too heavily."

Fired Japanese Lawyer

Girard, acting on his brother's advice, has fired his Japanese lawyer Itsuro Hayashi. But Hayashi said the dismissal action came too late and that he already had deposited with a district court papers signed by the soldier and acknowledging his indictment.

Louis Girard had urged his brother to deny Japanese jurisdiction in the case.

In Omiya, Japan, William Girard's Japanese fiancée said, "I guess Bill's brother is running things now."

The fiancée, Miss Haru (Candy) Sueyama, 27, said she doesn't know what the soldier thinks about the situation—"he won't talk about it." She described him as "upset and nervous" and added that she is too.

Eisenhower

er Sunday evening to go to American University, the chief executive said he felt he was developing a stomach upset.

Eisenhower returned to the White House a little after 10 p.m., and by that time he was in distress.

Dr. Snyder was called and arrived at the White House shortly after 10 p.m. He remained through the night and was still with Eisenhower at midmorning.

Hagerty then went on to say that Mattingly, the Walter Reed heart specialist, came in this morning. Mattingly took an electrocardiogram to check on performance of the President's heart, which was damaged by a "moderate" coronary thrombosis in September 1955. That attack hospitalized the President and kept him from his White House desk for 3½ months.

Heaton To See Ike
Hagerty said Heaton, the physician who performed the ileitis surgery, probably would see Eisenhower later in the morning.

Eisenhower, Hagerty reported, was "up and down quite a few times last night" as a result of his illness.

The indications were that the digestive upset was making it difficult for him to remain in bed.

In response to questions, Hagerty said Eisenhower had dinner at the White House before going to the American University ceremonies. There was no immediate information regarding the menu.

Hagerty said that although Eisenhower suffered from nausea and vomiting during the night, the vomiting had ceased by morning.

After announcing Eisenhower's illness, Hagerty said he wanted to clear up a "mistake" which he had made on Saturday.

At that time, replying to a reporter's question, the press secretary said Eisenhower no longer was getting anticoagulants to keep his blood thin and lessen the possibility of a recurrence of his 1955 heart attack.

Use Was Decreased
Hagerty said today he had misunderstood Dr. Snyder and that the use of anticoagulants had been decreased rather than eliminated.

Hagerty said Eisenhower now is getting a dose of anticoagulant six times a week instead of the previous seven times.

Eisenhower's youngest brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, also was under doctors' care today.

The 57-year-old president of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, became ill Saturday and was admitted to Johns Hopkins hospital Sunday with a fever.

Further tests were scheduled for today after a preliminary diagnosis showed Milton had a kidney infection.

The first announcement of last year's ileitis attack described Eisenhower's illness then as an "upset stomach and headache."

In September 1955, when Eisenhower suffered a coronary thrombosis, the first report said he had a "digestive upset."

It was the morning of Sept. 24, 1955, that the White House first announced in Denver that Eisenhower had suffered a "digestive upset" during the night. It was not until about six hours later that it was announced he had been stricken with a heart attack and hospitalized.

Another Digestive Upset
Last June 8 the White House first announced shortly after 9 a.m. that the President had suffered a "digestive upset" during the night, but there was "nothing wrong with his heart."

Then about midday an announcement came that Eisenhower had been stricken with inflammation of the small intestine. Later in the day X-rays showed partial blockage of the intestine.

In the early hours of the next day, a team of 13 physicians decided after consultation that immediate surgery was necessary.

The operation was started almost at once, and Eisenhower was under the knife at Walter Reed Hospital for 1 hour and 53 minutes.

Asked today whether any thought had been given to moving Eisenhower to a hospital this time, Hagerty replied: "None at all."

That was the situation a year ago at the time of the ileitis attack. The White House for several hours insisted that Eisenhower was not ill but suffering merely from a stomach upset.

About three hours later on that occasion, it was announced that Eisenhower would be removed to Walter Reed by ambulance.

A week before the ileitis attack, Eisenhower told a Citizens For Eisenhower meeting—in reference to his heart attack of the previous year—that he wouldn't know he had been sick except that the doctors kept reminding him of it.

battling the fire in his car with a water hose.

Firemen arrived and later found that matches had been thrown onto the front seat of the car of Mrs. Maude Fido, mother-in-law of Ferguson, whose 1950 sedan was also parked in the garage. It was slightly damaged.

Fire Chief Tony Brandonisio said the auto fires were apparently started by tossed matches.

Firemen returned the trucks to the fire station and returned home but were called out again at 5:30 p.m. when flames swept a wooden structure at the home of Griffith.

Griffith removed two motorcycles from beside the building which was a storehouse, but firemen were unable to save the structure. The rear of a nearby restaurant was charred and windows broken by the heat.

Later in the morning, Kenneth Brown of W. Main St. discovered the control panel and interior of his car had been damaged by fire which had gradually smothered out.

Mellito and two Lisbon police officers conducted the investigation which included fingerprint checks. The fire marshal later swore out a warrant for Strabley as a possible suspect, and he was taken into custody by Police Chief Cleo Mellott and special officer Stanley Fitch. A formal questioning will be held this afternoon at 2 at Lisbon.

New Type Flu Reaches U.S.

96 On Liner From Manila Had Virus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A new kind of influenza which has been sweeping Asian countries has reached American shores with patients describing it in stronger language than doctors used.

U. S. Public Health Service doctors, who examined passengers and crewmen arriving from Manila Sunday on the American President liner President Cleveland, agreed it was a "mild" variant of the A-type virus known in this country.

Dr. Edgar Norris, chief quarantine officer, said the 96 passengers and crewmen who had the new type during the 20-day voyage "didn't care whether they lived or died," and ran fevers as high as 104 degrees before the malady ran its course in three to five days.

Dr. Francis B. Galbraith, ship's surgeon, said he came down with it after treating patients for nearly three weeks. While it was "quite mild" and "no worse than old-fashioned American flu," Galbraith said antibiotics did no good and he fell back on aspirin and codeine.

Ten passengers who had recovered volunteered blood samples. Norris said the blood would be used in a search for a new vaccine.

Geoff de Fraga, information officer at the Australian consulate general here, said the new virus was isolated in Australia two weeks ago and government serum laboratories already have begun producing a new serum for public use.

Dr. Rodney Yoell, American President Lines medical officer, said U.S. Army technicians in the Far East also have isolated the virus.

Yoell pointed out that the 96 cases on the Cleveland, including 23 crewmen, occurred among 2,000 passengers and 357 crewmen. Some 500,000 have had the new variant in India since April and schools are closed there. In the Philippines 300,000 cases have resulted in 185 deaths, according to health officials. In Japan the epidemic is reported waning after an estimated 400,000 cases.

Mrs. Eugene Reynolds of Chicago, a President Cleveland passenger, said she was down for three days with 104 degree fever. "I've had flu before, but there's nothing like this. Everything hurt. My head hurt like somebody was beating on it with a ball pen hammer."

4 Reasons Why:

YOU SHOULD KEEP YOUR GAS FURNACE PILOT ON THIS SUMMER...!

You will find it wise to leave on the pilot light in your Gas Furnace during the summer months. The cost is small, and there are many practical benefits:

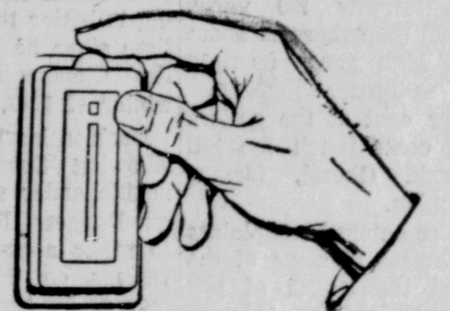

LONGER LIFE FOR YOUR HEATING SYSTEM

The small amount of heat from the Gas pilot keeps heating equipment dry during the summer months. This prevents rust and prolongs the life of your equipment.

HEAT WHEN YOU WANT IT

You can take the edge off chilly summer days with a touch of the finger. Using your heating system for just a few hours helps to rid your house of dampness, too. You also have instant command of your heating system for cool days in late spring and early fall.

A MORE COMFORTABLE BASEMENT

The slight amount of heat generated by the Gas pilot maintains a gentle updraft in the chimney. This helps ventilate the basement and dry the air, reducing dampness and increasing your comfort.

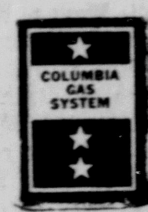

NO WAITING FOR WINTER HEATING

With the pilot light on, you're all set in the fall. You avoid the inconvenience of having to wait to have your furnace lighted.

Yes, if you heat with GAS, it will pay you to keep your furnace pilot on this summer....

Rain Halts Racing At Canfield Track

Rain and cold weather halted racing at Canfield Speedway Saturday night, but there will be plenty of thrills in store for fans on Wednesday and Saturday nights this week.

Late model cars will be featured on Wednesday, while a split program of late models and modified sportsmen "bombs" will be held on Saturday.

Each program will have eight events, and time trials both nights will get under way at 7 p.m. The first race is scheduled 8:30 p.m.

The return of the modified mounts has added interest to the Saturday programs. Several Clevelanders head the modified events. Among them are Norm McCarthy, Mac Clingan, Don Eggett, Bob Bacon, Jack Mackey, and Bill Mormile. Jim Edmondson hails from Twinsburg, while Vic George and George Carler are the red-hot Aliquippa speedsters.

All of these top drivers along with several newcomers are expected to see action in Canfield's first, open competition racing.

Golf Pros Yelling Bloody Murder Over Inverness Course

TOLEDO, Ohio. (AP) — After one look, the golf pros are yelling "bloody murder" over the tight-tensioned Inverness Club course, scene of the National Open Tournament starting Thursday.

"I don't know what they're trying to prove," groaned Sam Snead one of the top favorites. "This is nothing like the course we used to play on in the four-ball tournaments. They're making golf drug-gery instead of fun."

Jimmy Demaret, a three-time Masters champion who like Snead has never won the Open, said, "It's utterly ridiculous the way some of these holes are laid out. I predict on Sunday we'll be paying homage to another fluke champion."

Julius Boros, Vic Ghezzi, Cary Middlecoff and Peter Thomson were others to voice mild protest over the gun-barrel fairways, tenacious rough and lightning fast greens.

"There's not a birdie hole on the course," said Middlecoff, the defending champion. "I think 285 will be good enough to win."

Main objections were to the par five 12th hole, measuring 527 yards. The fairway undulates 250 yards from the tee, giving the long driver a sidehill lie. A ditch crosses the fairway 150 yards farther on and then there is about 60 yards of high grass fronting an elevated well-trapped green.

"Ninety per cent of the golfers in the field can't reach the hill in two," said Ghezzi, former P.G.A. champion.

The pros also entered complaints over the tightness of some of the fairways and the length of par four holes such as the 446-yard ninth and 479-yard 14th.

Score Returns For Examination Of Eye

BALTIMORE (AP) — Indian pitcher Herb Score was en route back to Cleveland today for another examination of his right eye injured by a line drive May 7.

The brilliant southpaw, who turned 24 last Friday, has been recuperating at the Hagerstown, Md., home of an uncle, A. F. Flood. At a Baltimore (WMAR-TV) studio, Score told a newsmen two feet away he could make out his features "and two weeks ago I wouldn't have been able to do that at all. I'm satisfied I'm on the mend."

TRY SALEM NEWS WANT ADS

A ninth-inning home run by Washington outfielder Roy Sievers led to a 7-6 victory for the Senators Sunday after the Indians had taken the first game 7-2.

Sievers, nursing a bruised arm suffered Saturday in a collision with teammate Rocky Bridges, came off the bench with the score tied 5-5 and a runner on base and walloped a homer into the left field stands.

Ray Narleski, who had just entered the game, was the victim of Sievers' blast, his 12th home run of the season. The best the Indians could do in the last half of the ninth was score one run after Larry Raines had hit a pinch double.

Cleveland coasted to victory in the opener behind the six-hit performance of Early Wynn, who went all the way to register his seventh triumph of the season against six losses.

Vic Wertz and Rookie Roger Maris hit two home runs apiece in the nightcap. Maris' blast over the right field fence in the eighth inning gave the Indians a 5-4 lead, but the Senators tied the score in the ninth with an unearned run off Bud Daley, who relieved starter Mike Garcia in the seventh and was charged with the loss, his fifth against one victory.

Pinch hitter Jerry Snyder, leading off in the ninth, went all the way to second on a wild throw by third baseman Al Smith and then scored on a single by Eddie Yost.

Manager Kerby Farrell called on Narleski when Sievers was sent to the plate as a pinch hitter for Pete Runnels after Yost was forced at second by Herb Plews.

Narleski, making his third appearance in three days, faced only two batters—Sievers and Jim Lemon, who hit a single. Hank Aguirre finally retired the side.

Raines hit his double to left field with one out and scored on a single by Smith. Pinch hitter Eddie Robinson forced Smith at second and Wertz ended the game with a pop foul.

Wertz drove in a total of five runs—two with a double in the first game and three with his seventh and eighth homers in the nightcap. He now has a total of 39 RBI's, second only to Sievers, who has 40, in the American League.

Russ Kemmerer, who started and lost the first game, was credited with his first victory of the season in the second. He pitched four innings in the opener and two—the seventh and eighth—in the second.

Maris' homers were his sixth and seventh of the season. It was the first time in his brief major league career that he had hit two circuit blows in one game.

The Indians scored four runs off Kemmerer in the fourth inning of the first game and three off reliever Evelio Hernandez in the seventh. The Senators scored single runs in the fifth and eighth frames.

The Tribe, idle today, opens a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox here Tuesday night.

Tebbetts Thinks NL Pitching Is Better

BROOKLYN (AP) — Birdie Tebbetts thinks National League pitching is better this year than at any time since he became manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs in the winter of 1953.

Back in his best oratorical form following Sunday's 3-1 and 3-0 doubleheader sweep of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Birdie took time out to make a couple of other observations on the National League race as his team headed for Pittsburgh today, back in first place.

"I said back in March that Brooklyn was the team to beat for the pennant," said Tebbetts, "and I've seen nothing to change my mind although Milwaukee has been knocking us down every time they've played us. With the possible exception of Philadelphia, Brooklyn has the finest young pitching in the league."

"This is really shaping up as a humdinger of a race," observed Tebbetts. "With any one of five clubs capable of winning it. No ball club is going to break away from the rest. That's sure. The pitching is too good to allow any one team to put together a long winning streak."

"I've never seen so many good young pitchers since I've been in this league. Practically every club has one or two good ones."

Herron's Transfer Rips Morgan Engineers

Herron's Transfer ripped Morgan Engineers of Alliance 12-1 in an AA game played at Kelly Park Sunday afternoon.

Leo Kline and Wayne Russell combined to hurl a nifty three-hit against the Engineers.

Both teams were deadlocked after the second inning, but Herron's tallied nine runs in the third and two in the fourth to wrap up the game.

Kline, Culler and Menichelli had two hits apiece to pace the Herron 10-hit attack.

JIM WATSON is shown making one of two goals which the Salem Polo team scored Sunday against Mahoning Valley riders. Salem lost the game, however, 8-2.

Mahoning Valley Riders Defeat Salem Club 8-2

Salem's Polo Club went down to their second defeat of the season at the hands of the Mahoning Valley Riders 8-2 Sunday afternoon at the local field.

Curly Crum scored four points to pace the winners' attack. He scored all his points in the final half of the game.

Both teams fought furiously on the wet field.

Stan Strauss tallied the visitors' first goal, and at the end of the first chukker, Mahoning led 1-0. Ed Botak made two goals, and Jack Zedaker scored one, and at halftime Mahoning led 4-0.

To start the fourth chukker, Crum put his team farther out in front with his first marker, making the score 5-0.

Ronnie Telemanz, chalked up Salem's first goal three and one half minutes into the fifth frame, cutting the deficit to 5-1.

In the final chukker Crum made three goals, and Jim Watson and Paul Powers tallied markers for the Salem squad.

Cardinals, Red Sox Take Two; Yankees Win; Braves Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
You can call them the Baltimore giant killers from now on after the job the Orioles did on the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees over the last two weekends.

Paul Richards' birds edged into sixth place Sunday by sweeping a pair from the league-leading White Sox to make it three out of four in the series. Only a week ago they took three out of four from the Yanks.

Billy O'Dell, a 24-year-old southpaw making his first start of the season, struck out 11 White Sox in his second-game 5-0 shutout. Homers by Tito Francona and Bob Nieman helped the Orioles' ace reliever George Zuverink win his sixth in the opener 7-5.

The second-place Yankees took advantage of some crazy baserunning and a defensive lapse to whip Detroit 5-4.

Cincinnati's determined Redlegs held Brooklyn to only one run in 18 innings while taking two from the Dodgers 3-1 and 3-0. That gave Cincinnati a 1½-game lead in the National after a one-day drop into third place.

The Dodgers and Phillies are tied for second because the Phillies lost to Chicago 7-3 and had to settle for a 4-4 tie in the second game, called by the Sunday curfew in Philadelphia.

Milwaukee stumbled again at Pittsburgh. After winning the 11-inning first game 2-1 on Roberto Clemente's error and Johnny Logan's single, the Braves bowed to Ronnie Kline in the second game 5-3. Hank Aaron ran his home run total to 15 with one in each game.

St. Louis also edged into the thick of the race by taking two from New York. They won the first 2-1 for Vinegar Bend Mizell's first victory, and the second 10-7 for Lindy McDaniel by scoring six runs in the sixth inning when 11 men went to bat against Steve Ridzik and Johnny Antonelli.

Stan Musial hit his 12th homer and played his 821st consecutive game, only one short of the National League record set by Pittsburgh's Gus Suhr in 1937.

Boston hit seven homers in downing Kansas City twice 8-4 and 9-5. Ted Lepcio and Jimmy Piersall each hit two and Ted Williams slammed No. 13.

Cleveland settled for a split with Washington, winning the opener 7-2 on Early Wynn's six-hitter, but losing the second 7-6 when Roy Sievers of the Senators hit a two-run pinch homer in the ninth. Vic Wertz and Roger Maris each smashed two homers for the losing Tribe in that second game.

The Orioles' double victory at Chicago was costly because George Kell, veteran third baseman, was hit on the head by a pitch from Dick Donovan and suffered a possible hairline fracture. At Detroit, Tigers Frank Bolling and Charlie Maxwell had just hit successive homers off Tom Sturdivant when a fast ball came close to Ray Boone's head. Boone and Sturdivant met halfway to the mound and exchanged three or four blows. Players from both clubs streamed onto the field for a 10-minute ruckus.

After all the fuss, the Yanks finally won the game when Hank Bauer tried to steal second with the bases loaded and the score tied. When Earl Torgeson threw to third base, Moose Skowron dashed home, scoring on a swan dive to the plate.

Don Hoak was the big man for Cincinnati, driving in four of the six runs with a homer in each game. George Crowe also homered for the Redlegs and Gil Hodges' eighth was the only Dodger run of the day. Hal Jeffcoat struck out nine Brooks and allowed only six hits in pitching his first major league shutout after Brooks Lawrence and Tom Acker teamed up in the first game.

Ernie Banks hit a three-run homer off Robin Roberts in the eighth to beat the Phillies in the first game.

Hoak Stars As Cincinnati Sweeps Two From Brooklyn

BROOKLYN (AP) — Don Hoak won his third base job with Cincinnati's Redlegs this spring by heavy hitting. And now his bat power is winning Redleg baseball games.

His two-run homer Sunday enabled the Reds to take the front end of a doubleheader from Brooklyn's Dodgers, 3-1—and to climb back into the National League lead.

Then, Hoak turned a similar trick in the nightcap, smacking a homer and batting in another run in the Redlegs' 3-0 shutout.

Hoak, a Chicago Cub castoff, used some vigorous hitting in spring training to make sure that manager Birdie Tebbetts didn't ignore him.

Tebbetts said then, "His hitting has been one of the most pleasant surprises of the training season to me."

Hoak's game winning homer came in the seventh inning of Sunday's opener after Ed Bailey had collected a walk, and it broke a 1-1 tie.

The Reds had picked up that earlier run in the second inning when George Crowe and Bailey walked and Roy McMillan singled a run in.

But Brooklyn had evened the score on Gil Hodges' eighth homer of the season in the sixth.

Redleg starter Brooks Lawrence collected the win, but couldn't finish the game. He suffered a twisted ankle in the eighth while pivoting to throw out Charlie Neal, and had to turn the post over to Tom Acker.

Lawrence showed his clutch ability in the second inning, after loading the bases with none out. He gave up singles to Hodges and Rube Walker, and a walk to Neal, but then bore down to retire the side.

In the second game, the pitching honors were all Hal Jeffcoat's. The chunky right hander choked off the Dodgers on six scattered hits in his first shutout as a major league pitcher and first for the Reds this season.

Jeffcoat, the former outfielder, got into trouble in the sixth when he filled the bases on a single to Sandy Amoros and walks to Hodges and Walker.

But he got out of the difficulty by getting the next man to fly out, ending the inning.

First sacker George Crowe got the Reds started scoring in the second inning with a homer into the centerfield stands.

Hoak made it 2-0 with his four-base blast in the fifth.

The Redlegs wound up scoring in the ninth when Crowe singled, darted to second on a wild pitch and moved to third on an outfield fly. Hoak followed with his run-scoring sacrifice.

The two wins set the Redlegs 1½ games ahead of the Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies.

Joe Nuxhall is Tebbetts' choice for a starter in tonight's game with Pittsburgh's Pirates. He'll be opposed by Vernon Law.

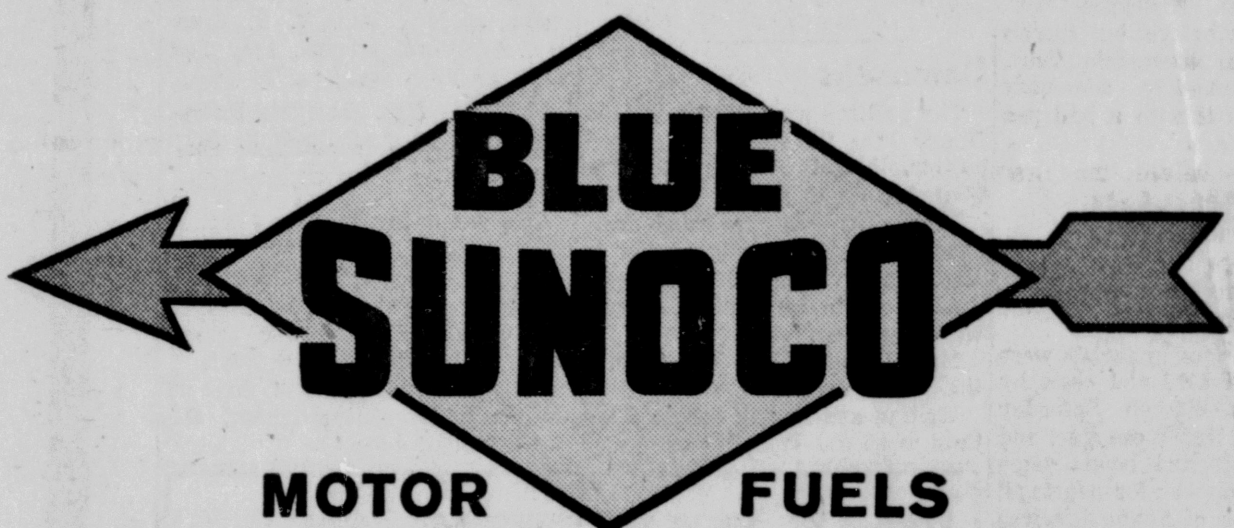

Junior Legion Team Wins 5th In Row

Salem's American Junior Legion team won their fifth straight baseball victory of the season Sunday afternoon when they beat Lisbon 6-4 in a game played at Centennial Park.

Larry Brown, the winning pitcher, went the distance for the Salem team and helped his own cause with a triple driving in a run.

Moe Meissner and Ralph Ehrhart paced the locals attack. They each got two hits. Tommy Brooks was the losing pitcher.

Jim Brown's 43-point scoring spree against Colgate last season is a Syracuse record.

Arnold Palmer Wins Rubber City Tourney

Defeats Ford In Playoff

Dow Finsterwald Ends In Third Place

By FRITZ HOWELL

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Arnold Palmer believes Doug Ford will win the National Open Golf championship this weekend at Toledo Inverness.

Palmer, 27-year-old former National Amateur king from Latrobe, Pa., made his prediction Sunday after defeating Ford of Mahopac, N. Y., on the sixth hole of a sudden death playoff for the Rubber City Open laurels.

Two chip shots which found their way into the cup for birdies were the big difference. Palmer, first to win three PGA-sponsored tournaments this year, went into the final 18-hole round tied with Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., at 204.

The two 27-year-olds had a comfortable three-stroke lead over Ford, fiery Tommy Bolt of Los Angeles, and surprising Bill Trombley of Dallas.

But Finsterwald couldn't get a birdie or a bogey in the final round, matching the card for a 71. Palmer, Ford and Bolt made up the final threesome. On the first hole Palmer got a birdie, Ford a bogie and "Arnie's" edge jumped to five. But Ford birdied the seventh, eighth and ninth to go only two down—and it was on the ninth the big fireworks started.

Palmer missed the green with his second, but flicked a 40-foot chip shot into the cup for a birdie. Ford promptly sank a 30-foot putt to match it.

A bogie on the 11th cost Ford a stroke, and he was down three, but he got it back with a bird on the 14th. Still two back, with two holes to play, the 35-year-old Masters champion and leading money winner for the year gained one on the 17th when Palmer three-putted for his only bogey of the day.

Ford drew even with a birdie on the last hole, his approach sticking just about two feet from the stick, and they went into extra holes. For the climactic round Ford had a 32-33—65, best round of the four-day meet, while Palmer had 68.

On the second hole of the playoff Palmer hooked his shot into a row of trees, but the ball banged a galleryite and rebounded to the fairway. They halved the first three extra holes in pars.

Ford almost locked it up with a 20-foot birdie putt on the fourth, but Palmer countered with an 8-footer. Two holes later Arnie chipped in from 25 feet out for the birdie which ended it.

In the Houston open Palmer defeated Ford by a stroke, but he said after Sunday's play:

"Doug is the best golfer around today. He's never in trouble, and trouble is what the Toledo Inverness course has in bunches. Ford is on top of his game, and it's getting sharper. Look at his scores here—70, 69, 68 and 65—he got better every day. I think he'll win the Open."

Palmer's 272 for the 72 holes was good for $2,300 of the $22,000 prize money, giving him $16,269 for the year. Ford's $1,900 prize boosted his 1957 take to $28,931. They are one-two in the money list.

Finsterwald finished third with 275, Trombley next with 277, and Bolt fifth with 278. Defending Champion Ed Furgol was in a 14th place tie at 280. A year ago Furgol nosed out Palmer by a stroke, after the latter had led through the first three rounds. Trombley, in winning $1,200, almost matched the $1,600 in purses he's picked up on the entire tour this year. Gene Coghill of Rochester, N. Y., who almost lost an eye several weeks ago when struck by a golf ball, got his first slice of tournament cash after a year of playing Nomad golf. He scored a 285 for $120, the bottom prize.

Three Finalists In Ladies PGA Tourney

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Three girls who missed big chances to wrap up one of the most coveted titles in women's golf set out to decide it today in the final round of the Ladies PGA championship. And if you have to pick a winner among them, the name of Louise Suggs probably would come out first.

The reason is experience. Wiffi Smith, 20 year old and a golf pro for only about six months, led the way into the final round with a score of 214 strokes to 217 for Miss Suggs and tiny Marlene Bauer Haggie, the defending champion.

But Wiffi faltered at the crucial point of the third round Sunday—on the last five holes where her closest rivals also were having trouble.

Miss Suggs, a wiry 33-year-old girl, has been on the pro golf circuit since 1948 and isn't likely to be afflicted by tension in a showdown.

Mrs. Haggie also has had plenty of experience, but Marlene also ran into difficulties on the last five tricky holes Sunday.

Orioles Lose Services Of Kell, Francona

CHICAGO (AP)—Third baseman George Kell and outfielder Tito Francona will be lost to the Baltimore Orioles indefinitely following injuries suffered in Sunday's 7-5 and 5-0 triumphs over the Chicago White Sox.

Kell was hit in the head by a pitch thrown by Dick Donovan of the Sox in the second inning of the second game. He was taken to Mercy Hospital where White Sox team physician Dr. John Claridge said Kell suffered a possible hairline fracture on the upper right side of his forehead.

Kell was to be held at the hospital 48 hours for observation. Francona suffered a fracture of the index finger of the left hand when he attempted a shoestring catch of Nelson Fox's line drive in the second inning of the nightcap. He was treated and released.

Becomes New Ohio Skeet Champion

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Lt. Col. W. B. Marriott of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base is the new Ohio skeet champion.

Marriott won a shoot-off Sunday from Jack Donahue of Cleveland after both men hit their targets 100 straight times in regular competition. In the shoot-off, Marriott continued his streak for 25. Donahue missed after 24 shots.

R. V. Thomas of Akron took top honors in the over all classification for the fifth consecutive year by hitting 289 of 300 targets. He defeated Loren Berton of Akron in a shoot-off hitting 96 out of 100 against Berton's 91.

Thomas also won the .28 gauge small bore event and the .20 gauge event. His wife, Shirley, won the women's all-gauge championship with 95 hits out of 100.

Fifteen-year-old Tim Zettler, of Canton, successfully defended his junior championship with 79 out of 100. R. G. Bartholomew of Dayton won the senior championship with 92 out of 100. Berton won the .410 sub small bore title with 46 out of 50.

Bauer Tries To Steal With Bases Loaded

DETROIT (AP)—Like the winning poker players who laugh and tell funny stories while the losers grumble and yell "Deal the cards," the New York Yankees had their own private little joke today about "Bauer's beautiful boner."

Manager Jack Tighe, whose Detroit Tigers dropped a 5-4 decision Sunday when Yankee outfielder Hank Bauer tried to steal second with the bases loaded—and turned the act into the winning run, thought the whole matter was very unfunny and called Bauer's maneuver "the rock of all rocks."

And both teams were prepared to forget—they said—about the third-inning brawl that started when New York pitcher Tom Sturdivant and Tiger first baseman Ray Boone traded punches over a pitch that nearly struck Boone on the head.

There was agreement on one point. Bauer concurred with Tighe on the "rock of all rocks" statement and said it was the first time in his long career that he had run a teammate off base.

There were two outs, the score was tied and the Yanks had the bases loaded in the eighth inning when Bauer lit out for second base, already occupied by Bobby Richardson. But before the Tigers could tag Richardson for the third out when he left the bag, Bill Skowron raced from third base with the deciding run.

In the third inning Sturdivant's first pitch to Boone was a high inside fast ball that caromed off Ray's bat as he was trying to get out of the way.

Boone charged toward the mound and Sturdivant toward the plate. They met, traded a couple of punches and fell to the ground. Bth benches emptied and it was 10 minutes before umpires could restore order. Both Boone and Sturdivant were ejected from the contest.

Kluszewski Rejoins Cincinnati Redlegs

BROOKLYN (AP)—Sluggish Ted Kluszewski is slated to rejoin the Cincinnati Redlegs when the team arrives at Pittsburgh today, but will not play until he proves himself in shape.

Kluszewski has been on the club disabled list since early this season after a back ailment flared up. Studies at Lahey Clinic in Boston indicated he could exercise his way into playable shape without resorting to surgery.

Boys are like trees in this respect. When they grow up "under glass," never having to assume responsibilities, they fail to develop the strength of character and ability that come to the boy who earns his own way.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

There are 100,000 men in this nation to whom the falling out among the scientists over suture fallout of unclean H-bombs is truly academic. They are the 100,000 pioneers who handle the radioactive "hot stuff" every day and always are somewhat worried that they and their daily bread will be "contaminated" by radiation. Their day-to-day tasks are accomplished with masks, gloves, other protectors and weird gadget, filled walls which were only the purple prose of science fiction writers of a generation ago—but today are the beginnings of a multi-billion dollar industry expected one day to employ 3 million.

Nor is this to come long in the future. This is not one of the industries which anticipates the past.

Its target year is 1960, according to the researches of James J. Bambrick, labor relations specialist of the National Industrial Conference Board.

Already 69 corporations are building 14 power plants worth 400 million dollars—some of which will begin supplying electricity born of atomic energy with 24 to 60 months.

ONE OF THESE PLANTS will be serving Pittsburgh, and another at Indian Point, N. Y., will send power into the big town.

In Florida, plans are complete for the first big power plant with natural uranium.

None of these will wipe out any jobs. They'll make jobs, for these installations will be additional facilities which positively will not displace current workers.

Furthermore, wages and profits will go up as industry's savings on the radioactive isotopes leap from last year's 390 million dollars to almost a billion dollars in 1959.

These savings come from the salvaging of minute shavings of tobacco, rubber, paper, metal and even plastics.

The cigarette industry, for example, saves over 30 million dollars annually now because for the first time it can really measure each smoke with absolute accuracy.

By noting the time it takes for a radioactive isotope to penetrate the width of the cigarette, the manufacturers can now pack each one with exactly the same amount of tobacco instead of wasting the stuff as in the past.

THIS IS TRUE for the rubber industry, too. Its problem was to coat each tire with exactly the right amount of rubber—not too thick, not too thin.

Now one of the atomic energy gimmicks measures this just right—and millions are saved in previ-ciously wasted rubber.

With similar thickness gauges, the paper industry saves some 18 millions annually. Golf balls are measured too, and the isotopes are even used to learn how to kill bugs more effectively.

In this eternal war with the insect world we now get at the termites by running radioactive stuff through the killing powders. They call this "tagging" the insecticides.

Then the scientists watch it work on the vermin. Thus we learn whether they die because they eat the poison or because the deadly stuff fills their skins and pores.

WITH A SIMILAR shot of radiation we discover, too, how the nasty creatures develop immunity to the powder—and then we learn how to kill them off again in new ways.

This is the last frontier on this planet. Other pioneers will have to apply to the International Mars Assn.

General Electric, for example, has learned how to hit sawdust with isotopes and turn the chips into feed for cattle.

But far ahead of all the others is the oil industry. Its experts say the industry has been revolutionized through use of the atomic energy gadgets.

They have extra sensitive gamma ray detectors. These are used in light airplanes or helicopters to penetrate the earth below.

By the reaction on the detector, the modern prospector can tell whether there's likely to be oil below.

ALSO THEY PUT the gamma detectors into the drill holes to tell them exactly where there are deposits of shale in which oil lurks.

In this day of cross-country pipe lines into which oil is poured for delivery thousands of miles away, it is no longer necessary to cut off one man's supply before you pour in another's.

Each quantity of oil is "tagged" with different radioactive waves so you know one shipment from another.

This modern magic is handled gingerly everywhere. Workers and their unions are beginning to battle for tough safety regulations—for there already have been several explosions and two deaths in reactor plants.

On this last frontier, all the pioneers must survive.

Replacing Broken Hammer, Ax Handles Not Difficult Task

Don't lose your head — the head of hammer, ax or hatchet, that is — over a broken handle. The job of replacing a broken handle is not too difficult. The rule to heed is "Handle" with care and you'll have a good-as-new tool, ready for years of useful service.

AS PURCHASED, your hammer, ax or hatchet was a tool whose parts were carefully fitted for perfect balance. The "feel" of the tool in use was a result of such matching.

When purchasing a replacement handle, take head of the old implement with you and enlist your hardware dealer's assistance in choosing the right handle blank for your purposes.

Check the stock and make sure that it is not warped. Examine the grain. It should be straight, and run the length of the material.

Don't buy painted handles. They are often less expensive than stock of prime quality, but there is no way to check grain that is covered with paint.

Your new handle should resemble the old one as closely as possible in weight, size and shape.

WHEN REMOVING what's left of the old handle, be careful not to damage the head of the tool, or your saw. Secure handle in vice and saw off the handle close to the head. Place head in vise or on a pair of blocks. With another hammer and a blunt nail punch drive out the remaining piece of wood.

Slip the top of new handle through the head. It may be that you cannot get the handle in on the first try. With a wood rasp, gently take away some of the excess wood. Make sure that you file the handle at its top evenly all the way around.

When you can slip the head onto the handle, tap the end of the handle gently against the floor—do no pound—until the head slips down as far as it will go. Notice where it stops, remove the head and file off the part of the wood that it rested on.

FILE GENTLY. Take the same amount off of each side. Do not alter the shape of the handle in any way.

Continue this process of filing and fitting until the head fits snugly to handle.

Saw off any excess wood flush with top of the head.

Next step is to wedge the handle in place. You can purchase metal wedges with serrated edges or wood wedges that will do the job nicely.

Wedge slots were probably cut into the new handle before it left the factory.

You'll need at least two wedges for a hammer, three for an ax. If you're using wood rather than metal wedges, drive in gently.

When all the way in, crush the top.

When using wood wedges you may fit them first, then trim off the end flush with head. Wooden wedges can be driven in across each other.

A FAVORITE trick is using both wood and metal wedges is to drive in a wood wedge the length of the opening, then drive metal wedges across it.

File the end of the handle smooth at top of head, once it's fitted and wedged.

If you want some sort of finish on the handle, brush or wipe on some well-thinned varnish.

BASEMENT BEDROOMS

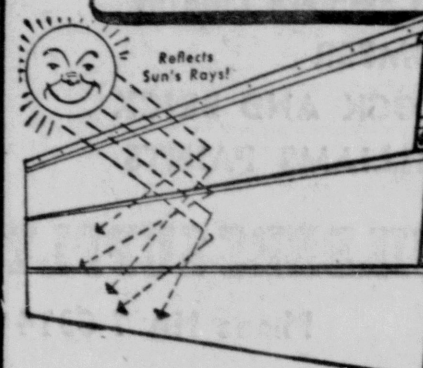

A new trend, basement bedrooms, is gaining ground in many sections, reports the Institute of Home Designers. Modern materials are making such rooms as livable as the rest of the house, and safety is assured when the basement area is provided with a safety are covered entrance to the outdoors, the Institute says.

For a quick appetizer: put sardines on individual strips of bread, top with thick tomato sauce and grated cheese, and slide under the broiler until brown.

This is a Careless Driver!

But if you were involved in an accident with him, it would do little good for you to say, "It was his fault!"

To blame him for his carelessness would do little to erase the memory of what might be the most tragic event of your life . . . really tragic because it could have been avoided.

He has been repeatedly instructed in rules of safety . . . instructed by those who love him very much. But he cannot be trusted to remember, nor can he be blamed for forgetting.

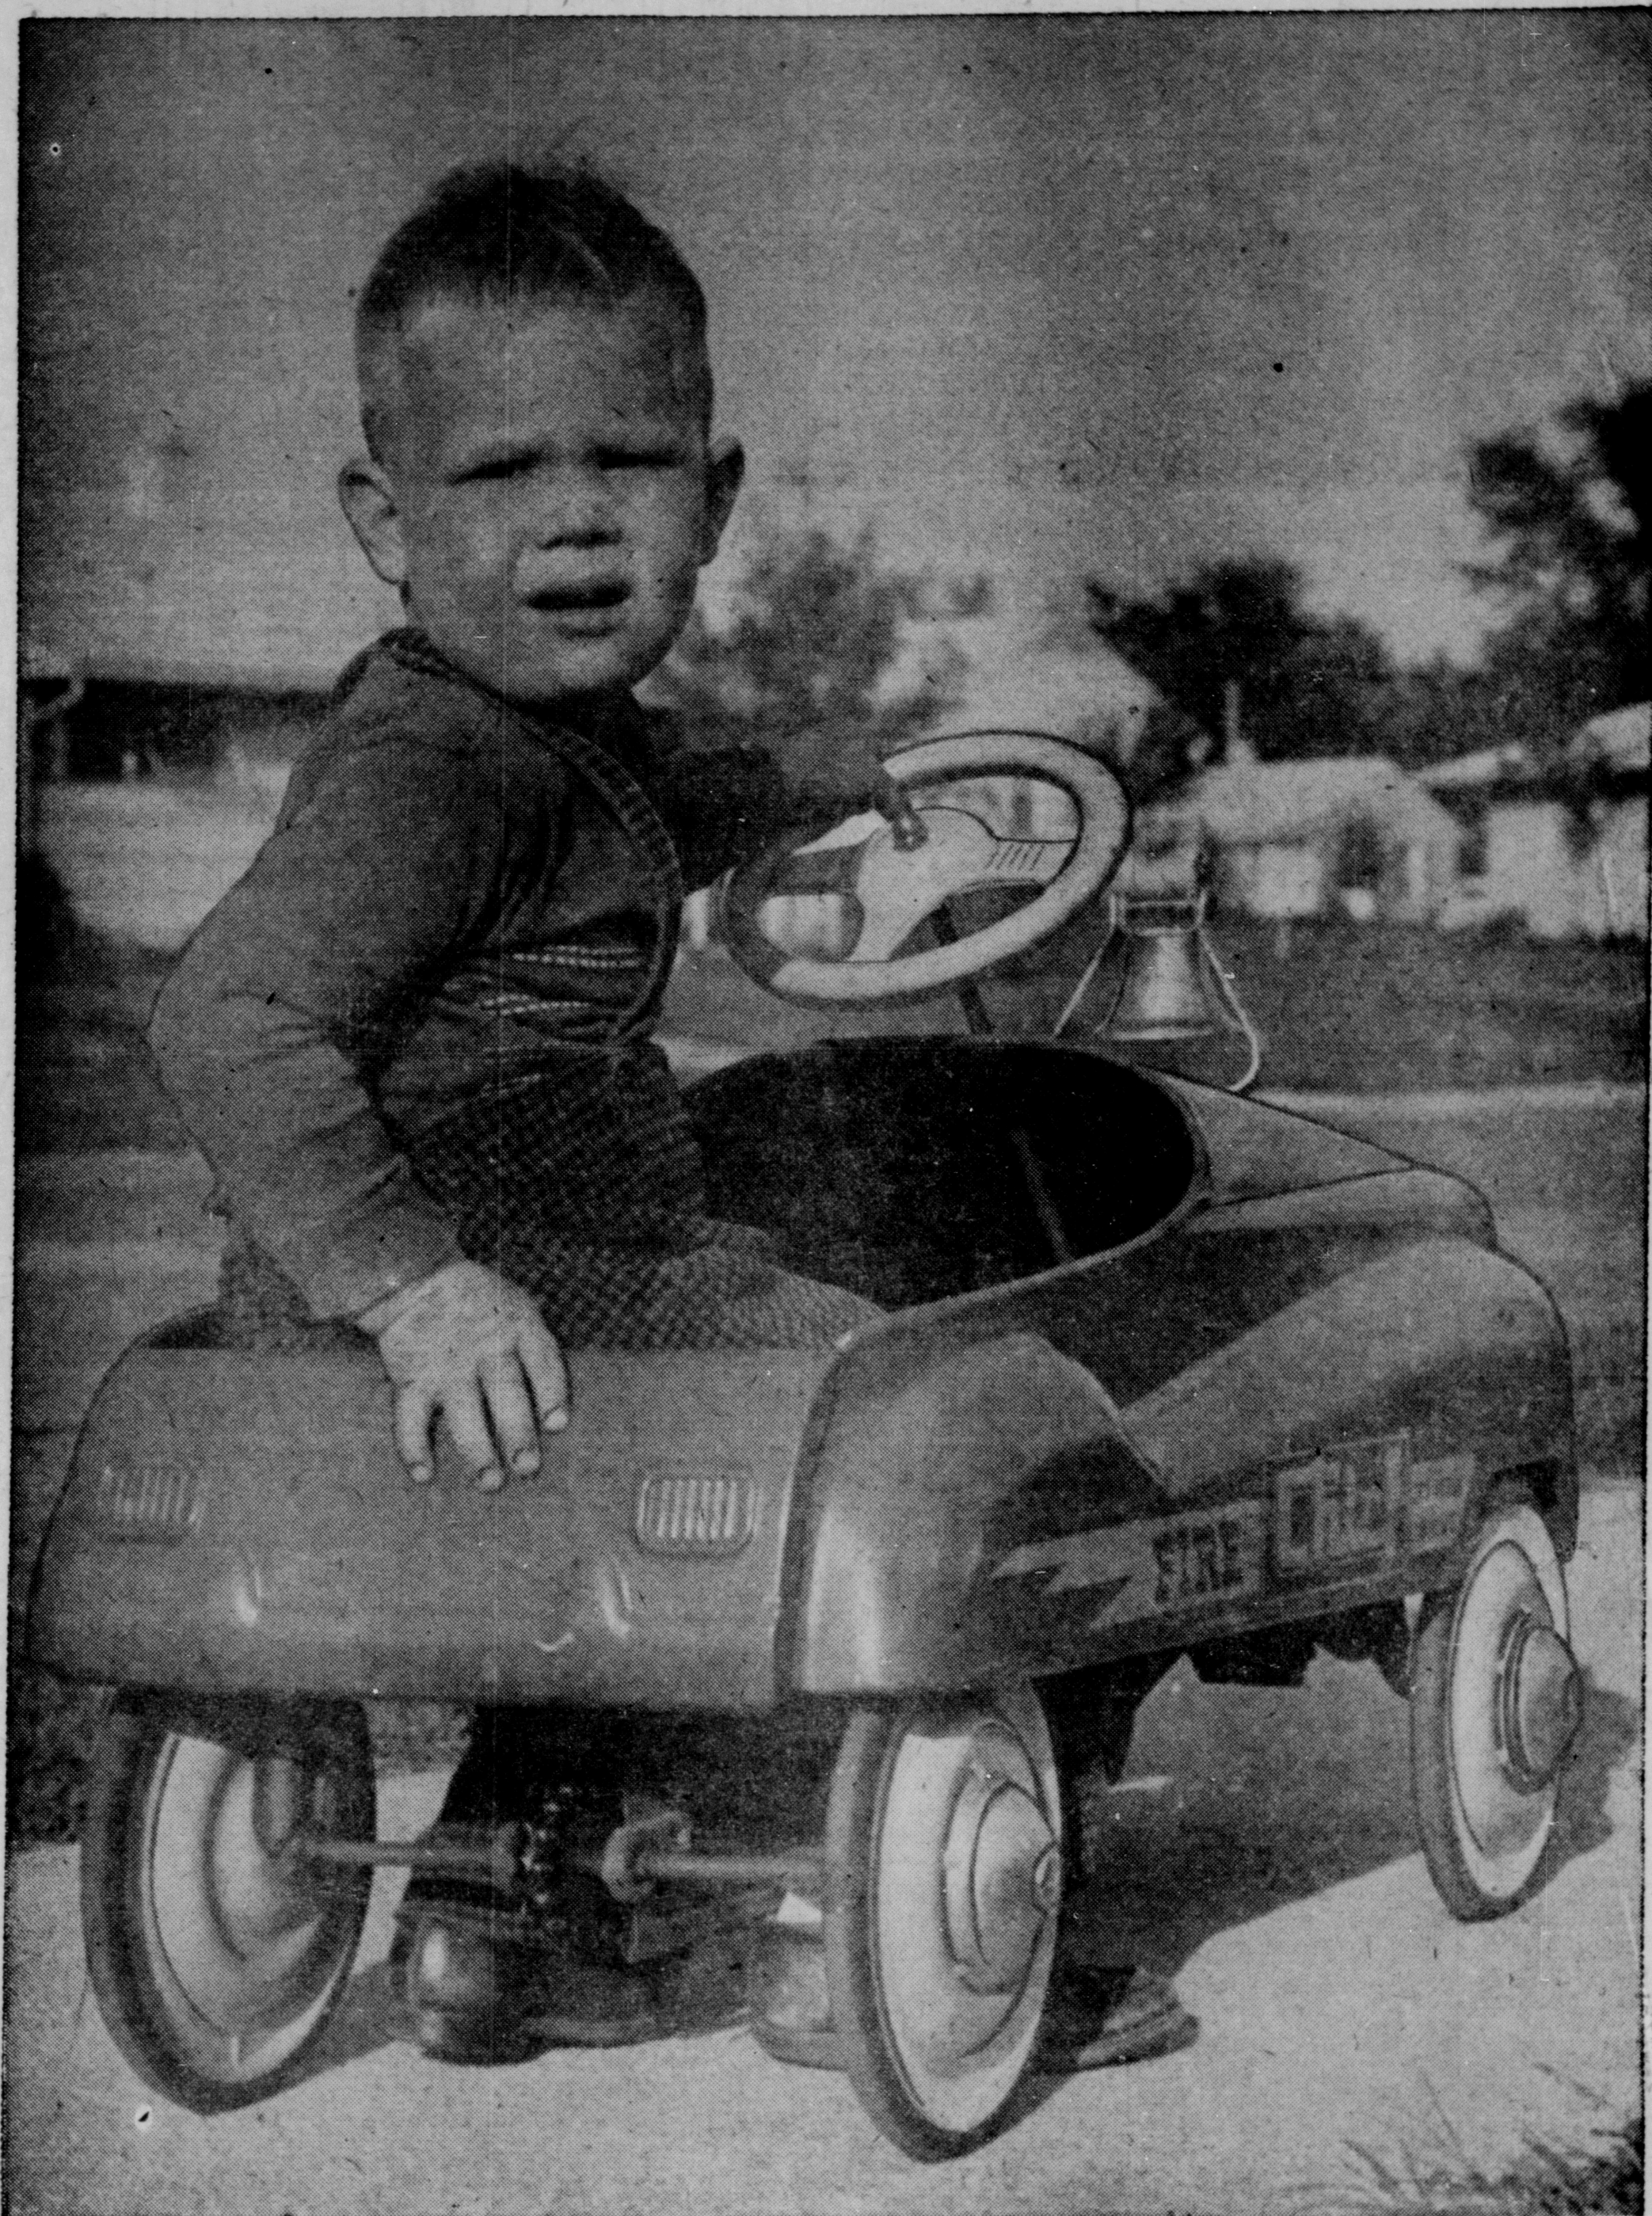

If you are a licensed driver, the law expects YOU to remember, and it blames you for forgetting . . .

You MUST remember that careful driving, at reduced speeds, is of utmost importance in guarding the very lives of careless little drivers and distracted little pedestrians.

SCHOOL IS OUT!

PLEASE BE A CAREFUL DRIVER!

New Columbiana Plaza Facilities To Have Openings Wednesday

COLUMBIANA — The new plaza market facilities in Columbiana are nearing completion and the first of the three stores in the market building will have its opening at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Closed today and tomorrow, the A. & P. is making the transfer to its new location.

New concrete walks have been laid in and around the 120-x-180 foot parking area in front of the market building, the parking area being the site of the three store buildings destroyed in the fire of Jan. 28, 1956, with a combined frontage of 120 feet on Main St.

The new A. & P. store quarters are nearly three times the size of its present location, and it will have double the number of employees. There will be five check-out lanes, one an "express" for customers with small purchases.

The Ben Franklin store has set Friday, July 5, as its opening date. Kimpel's Jewelry, the third store, has announced no date.

B. & N. TRANSPORTATION, Inc. of Columbiana, one of the largest trucking firms in Ohio, has been sold to Commercial Motor Freight, Inc., it is announced, but

B. & N. operations here will continue undisturbed indefinitely.

Approval of the sale by the Interstate Commerce Commission will be necessary before there could be any transfer of operating routes. The B. & N. was organized here in 1925 by Charles Buzard and Herbert C. Nolan.

Buzard withdrew from the firm three years later, and Nolan has been in charge of the business since. The company has large terminal facilities here north of the public square between N. Main and N. Elm Sts.

Sunset Temple, Pythian Sisters, of Columbiana will have as guests at a coverdish dinner in the Pythian lodge quarters at 6 p.m. Wednesday members of Petersburg temple. Members of Sunset Temple are each to take coverdishes, two table services and one or two bingo prizes. A program of entertainment will follow the dinner.

Salem Women's Bowling Association will have its annual picnic in Pavilion 4, Firestone Park, at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. Members are to take coverdishes and table service. Entertainment will follow the dinner.

Admits Crushing Man With Auto

CLEVELAND (U)—A 20-year-old East Side man admitted Sunday that he fatally crushed another man against a fence with an automobile but said the latter pointed a shotgun at him, Police Capt. David E. Kerr reported.

The driver was identified as Cardell Dixon, who is held without charge. Police said they also were holding Alex H. Grayson, 20, who was with Dixon.

Officers said the victim of the killing early Saturday was James Elliot, 30. His body was found under Dixon's car after it crashed into a fence. A loaded shotgun was found beside the body.

Capt. Kerr quoted Dixon as saying he and Elliot and Grayson attended a party Friday night and "we had an argument about some women."

Elliot left the party before the other two and when Dixon and Grayson drove up to the latter's house they saw Elliot standing on the tree lawn pointing a shotgun at them, Dixon told police.

Dixon said he drove onto the tree lawn and pinned Elliot against a fence to keep him from shooting.
